

Instructions for changing the scent of paraffin wax in your Therabath:

1. Start the day prior to when you would like to use the bath again.
2. For paraffin treatment hygiene information, visit our hygiene page.
3. Unplug the unit. Remove the lid and grille. Allow the paraffin to solidify overnight.
4. After the paraffin is solid, plug the unit in for a few minutes, or just until the cake of paraffin loosens from the sides and bottom of the unit. Then unplug the unit. DO NOT leave an empty unit plugged in. To do so will cause the unit to get excessively hot, causing possible damage to the unit.
5. Press down firmly on one end of the paraffin, tipping the opposite end up. Then lift out the cake and place it on paper towels.
6. Blot up any remaining paraffin in the tank with paper towels. If any solidified paraffin remains inside or on the outside of the unit, soften carefully with a hair dryer and remove with a paper towel.
7. Clean the inside and outside of the unit with an all-purpose cleaner. Thoroughly wipe the unit dry.
8. Add the new scent of Therabath paraffin wax.
9. Carefully open the bags of paraffin over the unit.
10. Add 6 pounds (2.72 kg.) of paraffin.
11. Place the grille on top of the unmelted paraffin.
12. Rest the lid lightly on top of the paraffin and grille. The paraffin will compact as it melts.
13. Plug the Therabath into an electrical outlet of the per voltage.

Cleaning Paraffin Wax Spills on Carpet, Fabric or Floors:

1. Scrape off as much of the solidified paraffin as possible.
2. Use a hair dryer or an iron (on top of paper towels) to melt the remaining paraffin, and then blot the melted paraffin up with paper towels.
3. Use a wax or paraffin removing solution (available at grocery and discount stores). Check fabric care instructions first. If possible, put the item in the washing machine to remove any remaining oil. Dry cleaning solutions and spot removers also work for some items.
4. For nonporous surfaces, first remove any pieces of solidified paraffin. Then use an all-purpose cleaner. Read the cleaner's instructions before using.
